SUMMER HOMES

1890.

MO

THIS Map exhibits in detail the topography of the country in which the many superior Summer Resting Places of the ERIE are located. Its attractions are as diversified as they are picturesque and beautiful. MOUNTAIN and LAKE and STREAM—RAPID, CASCADE and CATARACT, with ROLLING FARM-LAND and PRIMEVAL FOREST, combine to render this region especially and peculiarly a sanctuary during the hot summer months to those who seek in the midst of rural beauty. That thousands of city people year after year spend their summer somewhere within its borders gives ample testimony to its WONDERFUL HEALTHFULNESS.

ITS SCENIC BEAUTIES ARE UNRIVALED. AS A SANITARIUM IT IS PEERLESS.

EXPLANATORY.

"EXCURSION TICKETS," between New York or Jersey City and stations on Eastern Division (New York to Port Jervis, inclusive, including branches), and stations on N. Y. & G. L. R'y, are valid for continuous passage, either going or returning, until used; other excursion tickets, referred to in the following pages, are valid for continuous passage, either going or returning, on date of issue, or at any time within thirty days next thereafter, on passenger trains stopping, as per current time-table, at stations named on tickets.

"FAMILY TICKETS, 25 and 50 TRIPS," referred to in the following pages, are good for passage of the purchaser, of a member of, a visitor to, or a servant in the family, and valid for one (1) year from date of purchase. These 50-trip tickets are good for continuous passage in either direction between stations on Eastern and Delaware Divisions and New York, and the "25-trip" tickets are good between New York and stations west of Suffern to Susquehanna, inclusive. "12-trip tickets" are issued at New York, Jersey City and Brooklyn to all stations on the main line and branches from stations west of Suffern to Susquehanna, inclusive; also to stations on Lehigh & Hudson River Railway from Greycourt to Vernon, at rates named within. These 12-trip tickets will be sold from June 15th to September 1st, for continuous passage on any regular train up to October 31st of the year in which issued.

"PACKAGE, 10, 20 and 25 TICKETS," referred to in the following pages, are good until used, in either direction.

"COMMUTATION TICKETS," referred to in the following pages, are valid for continuous passage between the stations named on the tickets on trains stopping, as per current time-table, at said stations, and will be honored for sixty rides between the stations and during the month named on the ticket, on presentation to the conductor each trip, and to the ferry-master (at the ferry entrance on New York side) each trip from New York, by the person named on the ticket. Holders of these commutation tickets are privileged to ride as many times as they desire on any days, but the total number of rides will be limited to 60.

These tickets are issued only for calendar months; bear, in each case, the date of the first day of the month for which they are issued, and expire with the last day of month.

For more particular information regarding tickets, rates, maps, time-tables, etc., or for copies of "Summer Homes," apply to the Company's Offices, 401 Broadway, corner Walker Street; 317 Broadway, corner Thomas Street; 957 Broadway, corner Twenty-third Street; 713 Broadway; 143 Bowery; Chambers Street and West Twenty-third Street Ferry Stations, New York; 331 and 333 Fulton Street, Brooklyn; 107 Broadway, Williamsburgh; Corner Newark and Hudson Streets, Hoboken, N. 13 trains from New York Sundays.
12 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 30 cents.
Round trip, 40 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $7.50.

As quickly reached from the City Hall, New York, as is Twenty-third Street by the elevated road. This healthy, thriving town of 5,000 inhabitants is the residence of many New York business men, whose elaborate dwellings and elegant grounds show cultivated taste. Situated in the midst of the high, rolling country lying between the "Meadows" and the Passaic River, a natural drainage is afforded which cannot be excelled by art. Enjoyable drives in every direction; good fishing and boating in Passaic River; woodcock and snipe shooting in Jersey Meadows. Good public and private schools and churches of every denomination. Excellent stores and markets of all kinds.

BOARDING HOUSES.

E. A. Berry—3 minutes' walk. 3 single, 6 double rooms; adults, $5 to $7; children, $3; transient, $1. Good livery accommodations, $1 per hour.

Mrs. C. Van Riper—4 minutes' walk. 6 single, 5 double rooms; adults, $6 to $8; children, proportionately; $1 per day; discount for season. Good livery accommodations.

Carlton Hill is a recently opened station (formerly called West Rutherford) and serves a charmingly delightful district between Rutherford and Passaic. It is a progressive village of 250 inhabitants, situated on the east bank of the Passaic River; good boating and fishing and gunning. General store, public school and one Union church. Large florist's and bleachery.

GARFIELD,

BERGEN COUNTY, N. J.

12 miles from New York.
3 trains from New York week days.
3 trains to New York week days.
Fare one way, 40 cents.
Round trip, 55 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $10.

Garfield is one of the most progressive towns along the line of the "Picturesque Erie." The town was founded by Gilbert D. Bogart, an enterprising New Yorker, about four years ago, and lies directly opposite the city of Passaic, on the Bergen County short-cut of the Erie. Population, 1,000.

Good public schools, Presbyterian and Reformed churches, and excellent stores. The river Passaic is spanned by an iron bridge, which connects Garfield with Passaic. The growth of this place has been marvelous. Last year sixty houses were built, and there will be fifty to sixty more erected the present season.

The town is inhabited by New Yorkers. There is a good hotel and several boarding houses in the place. It takes but thirty-five minutes to reach the town from the metropolis.

BOARDING HOUSE.

MRS. E. CLARK—5 minutes' walk. 6 double rooms; adults, $7 to $8; $1.25 per day; no children or servants taken. Good fishing; bass, pickerel, &c.

PASSAIC,

PASSAIC COUNTY, N. J.

12¼ miles from New York.
27 trains from New York week days.
25 trains to New York week days.
13 trains from New York Sundays.
13 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 40 cents.
Round trip, 55 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $10.

A place of metropolitan culture and enterprise, situated in the elevated country just beyond the Passaic River. Population, 14,000, with a steady yearly increase. Many elegant and costly residences, excellent schools, both public and private, and churches of every denomination. The shops and stores are well stocked. Streets broad and well lighted, and there are upwards of fifty miles of flagged sidewalks. Surrounding country high and healthy. Fine drives in every direction, and good boating and fishing in the river; Dundee Lake but three miles away.

"The Citizen's Association," composed of wealthy and prominent citizens of Passaic, has for its object the permanent improvement of the city in the way of pavements, water works, sewers, street-car lines, public baths, &c., &c., and under its auspices Passaic is rapidly becoming a model inland city. At the time of our going to press, the New Club House is about completed. This is to be a favorite rendezvous for the elite of Passaic. The rooms are all lofty and light, and the ventilation is perfect. The ball-room is spacious and fitted up with all the most modern improvements.

HOTEL.

SIMMONS HOUSE—H. F. Simmons, Prop. 5 minutes' walk from Prospect St. station. 9 single and 7 double rooms. Rates for adults, $7 to $12 per week; children and servants, half price. Transient rates, $2 per day; good livery; 20 good row boats and one steam launch attached to the House. Fine lawns for croquet, with plenty of shade trees; fair fishing; first-class table.

BOARDING HOUSES.

Mrs. H. R. WELLS—6 minutes' walk. 3 single and 7 double rooms; adults, $6 to $10; transient rates, $1.50 per day; children, according to age. Good livery.

Mrs. M. L. SACKETT—⅝ mile from Passaic Bridge station. 3 single and 6 double rooms; adults, $16; $1.50 per day; no children.

CLIFTON,

PASSAIC COUNTY, N. J.

13½ miles from New York.
22 trains from New York week days.
23 trains to New York week days.
13 trains from New York Sundays.
12 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 45 cents.
Round trip, 65 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $11.25

This exceptionally healthy town of 800 inhabitants is located in the midst of a gently undulating country. Union church, used by all denominations; also used on occasions of public entertainments. Good public school, with about 200 pupils. Driving park in centre of town. Good hotel near beautiful grove. Surroundings delightful; fine drives to Paterson, Passaic, Rutherford and Hackensack. Roads broad, solid and clean. Dundee Lake and Passaic River only a short walk. Good fishing and gunning near at hand. Dwellings tasteful in style and comfortably appointed, many having superior water and drainage facilities.

LAKE VIEW,

PASSAIC COUNTY, N. J.

15 miles from New York.
20 trains from New York week days.
20 trains to New York week days.
13 trains from New York Sundays.
12 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 50 cents.
Round trip, 70 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $12.50

A suburb of Paterson. Situated between that city and the village of Clifton, this quiet village partakes of the characteristics of both places. Population, 500. The residence of many New York business men. Natural drainage, and abundance of pure water. Passaic River near at hand, and Dundee Lake one mile distant. Presbyterian church, and large modern public school. Good grocery; good hotel; post office, and express office.

HOTEL.

LAKE VIEW HOTEL—P. H. MACE, Proprietor—5 minutes' walk. 15 single rooms; adults, $9; children, half rates; servants, $6; $2 per day. Livery attached to hotel; good fishing at Dundee Lake, only a short distance.

PATERSON,

PASSAIC COUNTY, N. J.

16¾ miles from New York.
49 trains from New York week days.
48 trains to New York week days.
19 trains from New York Sundays.
20 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 50 cents.
Round trip, 70 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $12.50

This city is essentially one of industry and trade: The third city in the State in population (80,000), and one of the greatest in the Union in importance, variety, and extent of its manufacturing interests. The scenery round about Paterson is romantic, the Passaic Falls being second only to Niagara in grandeur. There are many choice drives, and numerous handsome churches, schools, &c. The stores and shops of Paterson are exceptionally well stocked, and residents of the outlying towns on either side—Clifton, Lake View, Garfield, Hawthorne, Ridgewood, &c.—find it of great convenience for shopping and marketing purposes. While Paterson makes no particular provision for the summer boarder, there are many hotels which furnish excellent accommodations to the visitor.

Of the Passaic Falls, both as a prominent factor in the manufacturing industries of the city of Paterson and as possessing great natural beauty, a recent writer states: "'The Great Falls of the Passaic' are one of the features of the city. The power furnished by them was the original inducement for the location of a city at their base. Passaic Falls have long been conceded as unmatched for their picturesque surroundings, even as they are undoubtedly unique in their configuration. The Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures in Paterson early saw the great power and promise of the Falls of Passaic from a manufacturing standpoint, and by a special charter, granted by the State of New Jersey, this Society was given almost unlimited authority in the direction of establishing an available water-power and the desired manufactures." Of the changes made at and about the Falls since the Society began its operations, the writer continues: "At first a slender dam was built, 200 yards higher up the stream than the present one just above the Falls. * * * The present existing dam was constructed in 1838–40, of immense blocks of stone, bolted together to their rock-bed with powerful clamps of iron. The water is thus diverted into an artificial channel constructed across the deep ravine and through the rocks, which barely permit its passage. From this point it is made to turn in succession three tiers of factories, the height of the Fall allowing three raceways, the water being used successively that number of times, after which it is once more discharged into the river, at a distance of scarcely half a mile from the point of leaving it."

"The Great Falls of the Passaic, or 'Passaich,' as it was called in the early days, have the extraordinary water-shed of over 800 square miles. The minimum supply for mill purposes in a dry season is fifty square feet, the average flow, of course, being vastly greater. The aggregate horse-power is 2,640. Much the greater portion of the horse-power still remains the property of the Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures."

HAWTHORNE,

PASSAIC COUNTY, N. J.

18¾ miles from New York.
18 trains from New York week days.
12 trains to New York week days.
7 trains from New York Sundays.
6 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 60 cents.
Round trip, 85 cents.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $15.

A well-drained, healthy town of 350, and growing rapidly, the increase in population during the past year being fifteen per cent. Situate on the bank of the Passaic, opposite Paterson. Good boating and fishing. The surrounding country is generally rolling and well wooded, the Goffle Hills furnishing a proper background to a charming landscape. Two public schools and Union church.

BOARDING HOUSE.

P. D. WESTERVELT—¾ mile; transportation free. 2 single rooms, 2 double rooms; adults, $6 to $8; children, $3.50; servants, $5; $1.25 per day; discount for season. Good fishing.

7 trains from New York Sundays.
6 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 75 cents.
Round trip, $1.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $18.75

This is said to be one of the prettiest spots on the Erie. An elegant new station has just been erected. The view is unsurpassed. The Monastry on Jersey City Heights and the spire on church at Fort Lee are in plain sight. The light from the Statue of Liberty can be seen on a clear night. Soil, rich loam and red sand stone. Excellent spring water. Good fishing in Franklin Lake, which is only a short drive from here. Population, about 500, and rapidly increasing.

BOARDING HOUSES.

CHARLES E. COLE—2 miles; free transportation. 4 single, 5 double rooms; adults, $5 to $8; children, $3 to $4; servants, $5; transient, $1.50; discount for season. Good livery accommodations, reasonable rates. Good fishing in Saddle River—trout, bass, &c. Gunning.

HOHOKUS,

BERGEN COUNTY, N. J.

23½ miles from New York.
14 trains from New York week days.
12 trains to New York week days.
7 trains from New York Sundays.
6 trains to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, 75 cents.
Round trip, $1.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $18.75

Surrounded by most romantic and picturesque scenery, this charming village offers rare attractions to him who would pitch his tent in the midst of rural beauty. The Hohokus Creek, from which the town derives its name, is a swift-running stream, its fountain head being a series of spring-fed lakelets far up among the hills, from which it comes coursing down through the "Sylvan Glen," a densely-wooded ravine, with here and there a rock-bound spring of ice-cold water, providing a delightfully cool and refreshing retreat during the hot summer days. The town and surrounding country are remarkably healthy; no malaria, no chills—excellent surface drainage and pure cold spring water in abundance. From the hill-tops magnificent views of the country for miles around are to be had, and there are splendid walks and drives in every direction. Exceptionally good fishing and gunning. Hohokus has a population of 1,500, good public and private schools, a Catholic and a Methodist church, and two good general stores.

BOARDING AND FARM HOUSES.

J. A. Osborn—½ mile; free transportation to and from two trains, morning and evening. 12 rooms; adults, $7 to $9; children, half price; servants, $5; $1.50 per day; discount for season. Old-fashioned farm house.

B. K. Van Nortwick—¼ mile. 10 double rooms; adults, $8 to $10; children, $4; servants, $6; transient, $2.

G. N. Bamper—¼ mile; conveyance free. 2 single and 6 double rooms; adults, $7 to $8; children under ten, half price; servants $5; $1.50 per day; discount for season. Livery. Good fishing and gunning.

Situated at the entrance to the charming Ramapo Valley, and in the midst of a country famous for its picturesqueness, Mahwah is in many ways desirable as an abiding place. It has a population of 1,200, and numbers among its permanent residents many noted New York business men. Delightful walks and drives to cool and healthful mountain retreats. Good fishing and hunting. The view of the Ramapo Mountains from this point is fine. Healthfulness unquestioned; drainage perfect, and an abundance of spring water. Good grocery stores, good public schools, and churches of the Methodist, Episcopal and Catholic denominations.

IN THE RAMAPO VALLEY.

At Suffern the Erie swings into the Ramapo Valley, through a narrow defile. For fifteen miles the valley extends, mountain-bound, and at times it is of barely sufficient width to allow the passage, side by side, of the river, the historic post road, and the Erie, while again it will widen out into a dell or ravine which marks the course of a mountain rill or torrent. Here and there, too, the mountains recede, and the valley spreads itself into a fertile plain, and in these occasional plateaus nestle, in the order named, the little hamlets of Hillburn, Ramapo, Sterlington, Sloatsburg, Tuxedo Park, Southfields and Arden. The river itself is a panorama of rare beauty. Its headwaters are in a series of mountain springs and lakes, and in its course through the valley it first meanders across the flat lands, then sinks into a narrow, deep bowl, to widen presently into a placid lake, and finally, before its exit into the level country beyond the valley, it tumbles over a ledge of rocks, and falls, a seething, roaring mass, to its rocky bed fully fifty feet below. In the quiet portions the boating is charming; the banks now and then open into snug grottoes and dells, down which come sparkling, splashing streams from the rock-bound springs above, while the dense overhanging foliage affords a refreshing shade, and there are many sheltered pools where the bathing is delightful. The river, as well as the mountain lakes from which it springs, is populous with game fish, and in the wooded mountains small game of every variety is plentiful, insuring to the visitor the best of sport with rod or gun.

The Ramapo country is in every way charming, and in the way of convenient and well-appointed retreats, eminently well arranged for the accommodation of the summer visitor.

Situate on the east side of the rocky pass of the Ramapo, Suffern, with its surroundings, presents a choice picture of natural beauty. Southward and eastward from the mountains, as far as the eye can reach, the landscape is made up of rolling woodland, interspersed with thrifty farms. From the summit of "Old Houverkopf," on the west side of the rocky pass, a view of many hundred square miles of mountain and plain can be had. Through this broad expanse many a brook and rivulet makes its way to the Ramapo, and dotted here and there are numerous lakes and ponds. The hunter or fisher in this region may always count on the best of luck. The entire country is exceptionally healthy. Leading physicians specially recommend its climate to sufferers from bronchial and pulmonary affections.

There are delightful drives in every direction. The beautiful Sterling Lake is but twelve miles away. The population of Suffern numbers 1,200. It has broad streets and attractive homes, and there are many well-appointed country seats and prosperous farms. Effective drainage and an abundance of spring and well water. Good stores and shops. One public and two private schools; a Catholic, a Methodist, and an Episcopalian church.

Named from a beautiful lake a mile and a half distant, which is famous as a fishing ground. The lake, together with about 6,000 acres of the country immediately surrounding it, is owned by the Tuxedo Park Association, which, composed of wealthy gentlemen of New York, was organized some three years ago for the purpose of converting this property into a colossal game preserve and sporting ground, and so much has been done toward accomplishing this object that this resort is now probably the most extensive and complete of its kind in the world. The grounds are elaborately laid out in a system of boulevards and mountain drives. Tasteful cottages and villas abound, and on the shore of the lake is the extensive club-house of the Association, which is provided with every modern convenience for the accommodation and entertainment of members and their guests.

Here New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania meet, on the Tri-States Rock, at the Junction of the Neversink with the Delaware. This is a section of much historic interest and noted for the remarkable beauty of its scenery, for here mountain, plain and river combine to form a picture of charming grandeur. Port Jervis is the terminus of the Eastern and Delaware Divisions of the Erie Railway; station for Milford, Pa., Dingman's Ferry, Pa., and all the Lower Delaware Valley resorts, and for the famous trout streams, bass and pickerel lakes, and hunting grounds of Pike and Sullivan Counties. Best of bass fishing in the Delaware, at the village. Population, 14,000. Good public and private schools, and churches of all denominations. First-class shops and stores of all kinds. East of the town, its summit reached by an easy wagon road, is High Point, among the Shawangunks. Here lies a lake of striking beauty, rock-bound and cool, and well-stocked with salmon, rendering it a favorite resort. The farther Catskills and the gap in the Kittatinny Mountains, forty miles away, are plainly visible from this point. Roomy stages run between Port Jervis, Milford and Dingman's, the fare for the trip being 50 cents in the day-time, and 75 cents at night. Private conveyance may be ordered by telegraph. The number of streams which are easily reached from this village is almost legion. Within a few miles from here are Basha's Kill, the Shingle Kill, the Bushkill, the Neversink, Mongaup, the Beaverkill, the Willowemoc, and hundreds of smaller streams with no names at all.

THE LOWER DELAWARE VALLEY.

HIGH POINT,
SUSSEX COUNTY, N. J.
88 miles from New York.
5 miles from Port Jervis.
Stages connect at Port Jervis with all important trains from and to New York

This beautiful hotel and mountain lake, with its charming surroundings, are now for the first time made known to the outside public. Picnic parties have long been familiar with "The Point," but on account of the hitherto absence of hotels "High Point" has not had any accommodations for summer boarders. Adjoining the hotel is the splendid "Lake Marcia," which is half a mile in length, quarter of a mile in width and 60 feet in depth. The lake is a large basin containing the overflow from the mountain springs, and is named in honor of the wife of Professor Cook, State Geologist. The location derives its name, "High Point," from its great altitude, being 1,960 feet above the level of the sea. One peculiar feature of its mountain character is that although of so desirable an elevation there is nothing fearful about getting there—the Turnpike Road from Port Jervis being so gradual an ascent that an ordinary horse and vehicle can trot the entire distance. The view from the hotel is unsurpassed, and is only limited by the power of vision. In full view from "High Point" are the Water Gap, Lake Mohonk, Middletown, the White Lake region, Milford, and the Delaware River for miles. Although the "Inn" at "High Point" in construction and situation is mountainous, yet it is furnished with all the metropolitan accommodations, such as water closets, bath rooms (hot and cold water), billiard tables, music for dancing, and telephone and telegraph connections with the world at large. It is only 45 minutes distant from Port Jervis, a city of 14,000 inhabitants, and where medical skill is within call when needed. Stages connect with all the important trains from and to New York.

THE INN, at High Point, N. J.—Address communications to St. John & Co., Port Jervis, N. Y.—5 miles from Port Jervis; conveyance 75 cents; trunks 25 cents each. 80 double rooms; adults, $12 to $18 per week; $3 per day; discount for June and September. Good livery. Fishing and gunning; experienced fishermen will act as guides. Boats are provided on the lake for hotel guests at reasonable rates.

MILFORD,
PIKE COUNTY, PA.
95 miles from New York.
7 miles from Port Jervis.
Stages connect at Port Jervis with all important trains to and from New York until 8 P.M.
Stage fare, day time, 50 cents.
Stage fare, night time, 75 cents.

A drive of seven miles from Port Jervis, over a road as hard as cement and wonderfully smooth, running along the base of a lofty and precipitous range of mountains, brings the tourist to the village of Milford, the favorite summer home of hundreds of city people. Milford lies on a broad plateau, 200 feet above the Delaware River, commanding a view up the valley that is indescribably beautiful, taking in the mountains, vales, plains and forests of three States—the Delaware winding through the landscape and visible for miles.

High hills surround the village on three sides, over which shaded roads lead to the many interesting points in the vicinity. The streets of the village are broad and free from dust, and are bordered by splendid maple trees. There are no pools of standing or stagnant water, marshes, nor low lands anywhere in the vicinity of the place. Population 1,000. There are four churches—Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist and Catholic, and an excellent general store.

A quarter of a mile from the village, and reached by a romantic footpath, is the "Knob," a bold mountain peak which rises nearly one thousand feet above the place; its summit affords a favorite outlook with summer boarders, as the country for forty miles around is brought beneath the gaze. A stretch of meadow slopes from the base of the Knob to the Sawkill Creek, which runs between the mountain and the village, and tumbling over an ancient dam, winds about in the Glen—a place of stately pines, picturesque islands, isolated walks and nooks among overhanging rocks, wooded knolls, miniature waterfalls—a place of perpetual shade. No hotel or boarding house in Milford is more than ten minutes' walk from this charming spot. A mile from Milford are the Sawkill Falls, famed for their surroundings, which are weird in the extreme.

A mile below Milford begins the Cliffs, a wall of perpendicular rock two miles in length, towering 800 feet above the road which passes down the valley at its feet. The Cliffs are easy of access by a mountain road, which continues along their summit, from which elevation a great part of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the Catskills, the Blue Ridge and the Kittatinny Mountains, with their numerous peaks and gaps, are in plain view. Three miles below Milford, reached either by the river road or a mountain road in the interior, are the Falls of the Raymondskill, the surroundings of which are the wild woods and the towering hills—the very home of solitude.

The Delaware River, for a mile in front of Milford, widens into a still, deep, eddying body of water, more like a lake than a river. A finer place for boating or fishing does not exist. During the black bass season, which opens July 1, and continues through the year, this part of the river is covered with the boats of those who love this most exciting sport, and the scene is picturesque and enlivening. Sportsmen will find attendants and boats at any time in Milford.

There are several mountain lakes of great beauty in the vicinity of Milford, all stocked with pickerel and other choice fish. Among these lakes are the Sawkill, Little and Big Brink, the two Log Taverns, and the two Walker ponds. Excursions to these lakes are popular pastimes during the summer season.

Midway between the magnificent surroundings of Dingman's—soon to be described—and those of Milford is Conashaugh Spring, on the beautiful Conashaugh Brook, and in a valley that is simply charming. A step or two from the brook, and perpetually shaded by the trees that stand thickly about, is the Conashaugh Spring, a pool of the coldest, purest, crystal water, bubbling out of the earth through sand white as snow. Three ragged mountain peaks rise in the immediate vicinity —one at least 800 feet high—cone-shaped and covered with forest trees, shutting in the spot as by a wall, and consigning it to seclusion that is its greatest charm.

STAGE—PORT JERVIS AND MILFORD—During the Summer, stages will connect at Port Jervis with all trains from New York up to 8 P. M., and stages will also leave Milford in time for early morning trains from Port Jervis to New York; conveyance, 50 cents.

HOTELS.

DINGMAN'S FERRY,
PIKE COUNTY, PA.

103 miles from New York.
15 miles from Port Jervis.
Stages connect with all important trains to and from Pt. Jervis until 8 P M Visitors prefer private conveyance as a rule.

It is an easy and delightful drive of two hours from Port Jervis to this popular retreat. It is an old village, and in the centre of a "scenic wonder-land." The end less chain of mountains that hems it about is traversed by streams of considerable size, which, rising in the still higher lands of the "back country," are literally hurled and tumbled over precipices and obtruding rocks, from the time they leave the parent springs until they reach the level of the valley, over a thousand feet below. They have worn deep ravines and curious chambers in the rocks, by continuous falling. There are also basins where the waters seethe and boil, and flow through chasms to the bottom of which the sun has never cast a beam. In the vicinity of Dingman's Ferry six of these streams thunder down the mountain. The Dingman Creek and Adam's Creek are particularly prolific in these grand works of Nature. Their cataracts and glens and gorges annually furnish subjects to both poet and painter. The Factory Falls, Fulmer Falls, High Falls and Silver-Thread Falls, on the former stream, are equal to any in the Catskills. High Falls is a wild reach of stream two hundred feet in extent —a high, perpendicular leap, then a gathering of the waters, and then a thundering plunge down the slanting but angular face of the rocks. Factory Falls is a tumultuous dropping of the waters of the creek, wrought to their utmost fury by sharp, projecting rocks and frequent precipices, until they writhe and contort themselves into such shapes as have gained them the name of Maniac Waters. Fulmer Falls are a series of most picturesque cataracts. The Silver-Thread Fall is the crowning beauty of these mountain torrents. It is a thread of water but a few feet wide, but it comes with one continuous fall of one hundred and fifty feet down the face of the mountain, every drop of water being lashed into the whitest foam. Standing at the side of the troubled pool which receives the waters after their plunge, the visitor may look up along the course of the Silver-Thread and see a patch of blue sky at the farther end. The falls on Dingman Creek are within from one to three miles of the High Falls House, the proprietor of which has rendered them easy of access, they having formerly been reached with great difficulty. Adam's Creek, on which there are a still greater number of natural curiosities, is a mile from Dingman's Ferry. Like Dingman and the other creeks in this vicinity, it is a famous trout stream, and a favorite resort of many persons prominent in letters and art.

The Bushkill Falls are thirteen miles from Dingman's; the Delaware Water Gap, twenty-five. Conveyances are furnished at Dingman's for visiting all these attractions in the valley.

STAGE—Port Jervis and Dingman's Ferry—During the summer, stages will connect at Port Jervis with all trains from New York up to 8 P. M., and stages will also leave Dingman's Ferry in time for early morning trains from Port Jervis to New York.

On the banks of the Delaware, 1,000 feet above the sea. Romantic Pike and Sullivan County scenery. Population, 300. Good public school, Methodist, Congregational and German Lutheran churches, and good stores. Shohola Creek, a celebrated trout stream, enters the Delaware here. Panther Brook, another trout stream, with fine cataracts, enters just above. The Falls of the Shohola are a great attraction. Nine mountain lakes reached easily, the farthest being nine miles distant; Hagan, Hagai, Big, Montgomery, Sand and York in Sullivan County, and Big and Little Brink and Big and Little Walker in Pike County, all stocked with bass and pickerel. Bass fishing in the Delaware. Deer, bear, fox, rabbit, partridge and woodcock shooting in season.

Shohola is the station from which a picturesque portion of Sullivan County, in the vicinity of Eldred —among the Sullivan highlands and lakes—is reached by an enjoyable drive of five miles. One of the finest game and fishing regions in Sullivan County.

Within a short walk from the station is the famous

SHOHOLA GLEN,

A wonderful exhibit of caverns, cascades and waterfalls, which has been converted into an immense pleasure resort, and is visited daily during the season by hundreds of people. It is a favorite resort for schools, clubs, societies and the like from New York and adjacent cities. The summer visitor is particularly commended to this rare spot in Erie territory.

This most interesting locality combines all the requisites of a summer retreat. The scenery is superb, and the view up and down the valley is of surpassing loveliness. It is on the Delaware and Lackawaxen Rivers, in the hunting and fishing region of Pike and Wayne Counties, Pa., and Sullivan County, N. Y.

The attractions of this place are its pure air, its beautiful scenery, its fishing, its boating, and the general wildness that pervades the surroundings. Roads climb the surrounding hills, and lead to many a point of interest.

Half way between Lackawaxen and Shohola is Panther Brook, with its charming glen and cataract, and its trout. A mile above the station is Lord's Brook, which forms a number of handsome falls a short distance back in the woods, and adds its quota of trout to the demand of the neighborhood. On the top of the ridge across the Delaware, a mile from Lackawaxen, is Mountain Lake, a large sheet of crystal water, well-stocked with pickerel. Taylor's Brook is five miles distant; the Shohola fishing grounds, six; Beaver Brook, three miles; Blooming Grove, (which has been, at considerable expense, carefully preserved as private grounds), and its streams, lake and hunting grounds, twelve miles, over a good road. Deer, bear, partridge, woodcock; bass, trout, pickerel, eels, cat-fish. No mosquitoes or malaria. The town has a population of 200. Good public schools, a Methodist and a Baptist church and a well-stocked general store.

HOTELS AND BOARDING HOUSES.

Delaware House—F. J. Holbert, Manager—3 minutes' walk. On banks of Delaware, at junction of Lackawaxen. Accommodate 200; adults, $9 to $12; children, $5 to $7; servants, $7, according to location; transient, $2; discount for season. Livery; boating for a mile on river; black bass fishing in front of house; boats free to guests; best of references; guides at hand; gunning in season. This house is situated on the high bank of the Delaware River, at the picturesque spot where the Lackawaxen River forms a junction with that stream.

It has been the summer abiding place of many of the best families of New York and Brooklyn for several seasons. The house has been increased in size by the erection of a large addition, in which is included a large hall for amusements and dancing. The new building is fitted with all modern conveniences.

New York Hotel—J. D. Oerr, Proprietor—House situated on high ground within 5 minutes' walk of station. 14 double and 12 single rooms; adults, $7 to $10; children, $4 to $5; servants, $5; transient, $2 per day; discount for season. Livery and stable accommodation on premises; good black bass fishing within five minutes of the house; boats free to guests; glen back of house; guides furnished; spring water.

National Hotel—(Temperance)—C. Van Benschoten, Proprietor—Near. Highest ground in the place. 16 single and 2 double rooms; adults, $7; children, $5; servants, $5; $2 per day. Guides at hand; fishing and gunning in season.

Mountain Lake Farm House—H. E. Twichell, Proprietor—1 mile; conveyance, 50 cents. 4 single, 9 double rooms; adults, $6; children, $3; servants, $5; transient, $1; discount for season. Good fishing; guides to the lake; livery on premises; prices reasonable; gunning in season; boats free.

12 trip tickets, $21.

The noted game and fish preserve, known as the "Westcolang Lake and the Delaware River Park Association," own about 5,000 acres of forest land here, in the heart of the famous Pike County fishing and hunting region.

The object of the Association is to retain this large and valuable tract as a game and fish preserve and private park. It has a frontage of nearly three miles on the Delaware River, and the property is unexcelled for the purposes to which it has been appropriated, and its accessibility is another great advantage.

Westcolang Lake, about two miles in length, included in this property, is noted for its pickerel and perch fishing, and the Delaware River for its black bass, and Westcolang Creek and tributaries for its fine trout. This tract might well be called the "Hunter's Paradise," as game of all kinds is found in abundance.

Extending for over a mile along the Westcolang Creek is a glen, rivaling in magnificent scenery that of Shohola or Glen Onoko. Within 500 feet of the glen, upon a high bluff several hundred feet above the Delaware River, stands the handsome, new four-story club house of the Association, which will accommodate 150 guests.

A limited number of shares may be secured upon application to the secretary, Mr. W. P. Holly, 558 Lexington Ave., cor. 50th St., New York City.

MAST HOPE,
PIKE COUNTY, PA.
116½ miles from New York.

Fare one way, $3.55 ; limited, $3.18.
Round trip, $5.30.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $88.75
Family Commutation, 25 trips, $44.40
12 trip tickets, $21.30.

A picturesque and healthy locality, with a population of 200, situated amidst surroundings similar to Lackawaxen, and the description of that place will apply equally to Mast Hope. It is very popular as a summer retreat, and has everything to recommend it to those who would spend the summer quietly in the midst of delightful surroundings. A good public school, a Baptist church and well-stocked shops and stores.

The grounds of the "Forest Lake Association," situated in Lackawaxen Township, Pike County, Pa. (for use of members of the Association only), embraces about 1500 acres of forest land, and are 4½ miles west of Mast Hope.

A large, new club house has been erected, and commands a beautiful view of the surrounding country, being situated on the highest part of the ridge of hills between the Delaware and Lackawaxen Rivers, and has an elevation of about fifteen hundred feet above sea level and seven hundred feet above the rivers mentioned.

To the west of the house, within easy walking distance, lie Wolf and Tink Ponds. To the east are the Big Corilla and the Little Corilla, the former being a lake a mile long by half a mile wide, and the latter a lakelet of about half this size; both entirely within the grounds of the Association. Twenty acres around the house have been enclosed, and are being cultivated for a lawn and pleasure ground.

The big Corilla, Wolf Ponds and the Little Corilla are plentifully supplied with fish. In season, ducks frequent the lakes; good woodcock, partridge and quail shooting, and deer hunting can be had in the woods of the Association.

On the Delaware River at Big Eddy, the widest and deepest part of the Delaware River above tide; literally, a large lake of pure spring water. Best of black bass fishing. Boating for two miles. Here, within a few years, has grown up a charming summer stopping place. The population of the town is 600, with churches of various denominations, good public schools and several well-stocked stores. Narrowsburg gets its name from the Narrows in the Delaware, just above the station. Below the Narrows the river widens into what is known as Big Eddy, one of the broadest places on the stream, as well as the deepest above tide-water. The visitor who seeks the opportunity for boating that Big Eddy offers will doubtless be struck with the number of transparent bubbles he sees floating on or constantly rising to the surface. These bubbles are formed by an inflammable gas that arises from the bottom of the river; it also appears in the sand along the shore, and may be ignited, when it burns for a few seconds with a bright flame.

Narrowsburg is in the midst of such scenery as has already been described in the Delaware Valley. There are lakes, and streams and mountains; splendid views and healthful air and water. There are ten mountain lakes within eight miles, and numerous trout streams in the vicinity. No mosquitoes or malaria; cool nights; deer hunting on surrounding ridges. Partridge shooting good; splendid drives; livery near station.

For a summer resort, Cochecton presents attractions unsurpassed in the country. This station is well-known as the railway point nearest White Lake, and very many tourists still prefer this route, the drive from Cochecton to White Lake being but fourteen miles, over a good road, and one rich in fine scenery. The population is about 800, with three public schools and a Methodist, a Baptist, a Catholic and a Presbyterian church. Well-stocked general stores. The location of Cochecton is well calculated to make it a popular summer retreat. The valley here is very wide, the Upper Delaware having no where such an extent of fertile plain. Cochecton village is neat and cosy, and there is an air of pastoral ease about it that at once attracts the visitor.

There are several fine lakes in the mountains, within four miles of the station, affording both pickerel and trout fishing. Lake Huntington and Mitchell Lake, on the New York side, are noted places, with good roads leading to them from the station. Among the trout streams are Calkins' Brook, Bush's Creek, Tyler Brook, Beaver Dam Creek, and Mitchell Brook, all near at hand.

The Delaware River is crossed at Cochecton by a fine bridge. Three miles below Cochecton, Calkins' Creek comes into the Delaware on the Pennsylvania side. Here, in a romantic spot, is the neat village of Milanville.

Three miles from Cochecton, in Wayne County, and beyond the pretty village of Damascus, which lies along the river and climbs the rising ground opposite Cochecton, is the village of Tyler Hill, a collection of beautiful residences. The surroundings of this elevated vicinity are among the attractions of Cochecton. The visitor has before him the beautiful country up and down the Delaware; the rolling land to the westward, with many high mountain peaks looking down into fertile valleys, and intervening stretches of wood and farm. The distant mountains of Sullivan County bound the river on the east.

In the midst of surroundings of a wild and rugged character. Callicoon has a population of 1,200, an excellent graded public school, numerous churches, and good stores and shops, which are always well stocked. It is the centre of one of the famous trout regions of the Delaware Valley. The Callicoon Creek, which enters the Delaware a short distance below the station, threads the back wilderness and a splendid farming section. Along its entire course, from the hills on either side, tributary streams flow into it at short intervals. The main stream and its feeders are natural trout creeks, and all the season long they afford royal sport to the angler. All these brooks are within five miles of the station. On the Pennsylvania side of the river is Hollister Creek. For two miles from the river this creek flows through a wild and narrow gorge, and seeks the level of the river by a series of wonderful water-falls. The borders of the creek are thickly grown with rhododendrons, and the early summer fills the glen with bands of pink-tinted bloom.

Numerous lakes cluster in the hills on both sides of the river, the famous Bethel township lakes, in Sullivan County, being within easy reach. In Wayne County, Galilee Lake, Duck Harbor, Swago Lake and others are near and convenient of access. Bass, pickerel and perch fishing are attractions of these waters. No malaria.

In a prosperous lumbering section of the Delaware Valley, with abundance of rugged mountain scenery. Trout streams near at hand, and the best of bass fishing in Delaware River. Good sport with dog and gun. This is the station for Equinunk, Wayne County, Pa., one mile distant on the opposite bank of the river, and easily reached by means of a well-kept roadway which crosses the river on a substantial suspension bridge. Equinunk is located in the midst of healthful and romantic surroundings, and is one of the most popular Erie resorts. Pure, cool, mountain air; nights cool during the hottest season; excellent water; malaria unknown. The best of fishing and gunning; delightful drives and rambles in every direction. Population, 500. Methodist and Catholic churches, good public and private schools, and plenty of well-stocked stores.

Two responsible citizens of the town, the Hon. W. M. Nelson and Mr. H. N. Farley, authorize us to state that they will, for one dollar, give to any responsible person who will erect and maintain a respectable house for the accommodation of a certain number of summer guests, a deed for five acres of land, situated near the village, on an eminence overlooking a charming landscape; or, on the same terms, a deed for half an acre for a summer residence for a family.

The Mohawk, or west branch of the Delaware River, rises on the southern slope of a spur of the Catskills, in Schoharie County, N. Y. The Popacton, or east branch, has its head in the wilderness of upper Ulster County. The two branches run nearly parallel across Delaware County, being divided by a ridge of mountains eleven miles wide, and meet around the base of a great dome-like hill at Hancock. The spot was called "She-haw-ken" by the Indians, which means "where the waters meet." The village here was formerly called by that name. Hancock, the present village, is surrounded by the loftiest elevations of the Delaware Highlands, all of which are heavily wooded. At no point along the river is the scenery more grand.

Hancock is a neat and beautifully located place, and is the centre of the great lumber region of the upper Delaware. The population of the town is about 4,000 and of the village about 1,000. There is an excellent graded public school with five teachers; churches of every denomination, and stores and shops of all kinds.

Hancock is literally surrounded by trout streams, there being no less than eleven within convenient reach. Cadosia, Reeds, Sands, Shehawken, Trout, Pease Eddy and Tyler Creeks are among them. The Beaver Kill is only twelve miles distant. The scenery on and about these streams is grand—falls, glens and wild ravines being met with at short intervals. Hancock is one of the most popular mountain resorts in the country. There are many fine lakes in the vicinity. Deer, bear, partridge; black bass in the Delaware. Good livery accommodations.

Deposit is a thriving village, surrounded by high hills, from the summits of which delightful views of the surrounding country are to be had, and has a population of 2,000 persons. It has a graded school with full academic course and eight experienced teachers; two private schools; churches of various denominations; stores of all kinds; a fine system of water works; streets lighted; telephone exchange and opera house; situated 1,000 feet above tide, and is noted for its dairying products. Three miles from Deposit is a mountain lake, nearly a mile long, surrounded with woods of beech, maple and pine, the clear, cold waters of which are well-stocked with game fish of every variety. This lake is called Oquaga. B. F. Taylor says very truly: "If there is a more restful place than this outside 'God's acres,' I have failed to find it;" and he adds: "The mountain road to the lake is picturesque enough to lead to Paradise."

The portion of this prosperous city best adapted to suburban residence is situated at its extreme northern limit. It comprises the Eighth Ward of the city proper. Through this portion of the city runs the Newark Branch of the Erie. Northern Newark has a frontage of more than one mile on the west bank of the Passaic River, which presents a charming picture at this point; and besides providing a natural drainage for the rolling land, which descends in a series of natural terraces from the very top of Orange Mountain, which forms a background to the picture, it offers at this point one of the best boating courses in the country, and many famous rowing contests have been decided here. There are any number of tasteful dwellings with elegant grounds. The population, which is about 20,000, is increasing more rapidly than any other portion of the city. The streets are broad, macadamized and well lighted, and on several, cars are run at convenient intervals. There are many superior schools, both public and private, churches of all denominations, and well-appointed shops and stores.

BOARDING HOUSE.

Mrs. Lowenthal, 61 Irving Street, Woodside—Good location; 2 minutes from North Newark station and 5 minutes from Woodside; near the Passaic River. 3 single and 2 double rooms; adults, $5 to $6.50. All home comforts; references exchanged if necessary; discount for season. Good livery. 2 minutes walk to North Newark station, where an excellent train service is in operation to and from Greenwood Lake.

Same general surroundings as Woodside and Belleville, and conveniently situated for suburban residence. Many New York business men have permanent homes here, and the summer home-seeker will, in time, find it convenient and healthful, although at present the residents of Essex do not, as a rule, offer facilities for the season only. Population, 1,500. A good public school and a Methodist church.

AVONDALE—NUTLEY—FRANKLIN.

These three stations succeed each other at intervals of about two minutes' time, and a description of the general surroundings will suffice for all. This, unquestionably, is one of the finest districts around New York. Its facilities for physical, moral and social elevation are so great that the seeker of a quiet home, either for a season or as a permanent residence, is confidently recommended here.

This thriving town is but two minutes distant from Avondale, and the character of the country being the same, the description of the surroundings of the former place applies equally to Nutley. Population, 2,000. Good public and private schools. Churches of various denominations. Residents do most of their trading at Newark, New York or Paterson. A notably efficient "Protective Association" for eliminating tramps and preventing and punishing lawlessness. Excellent supply of water. Good shops and stores. Telford pavements on most of the streets, which makes foot travel as comfortable as can be found in more pretentious towns. Adjacent to the station are the six tennis courts of the Nutley Field Club (100 members). This elaborate club-house contains a ball-room, dining-room, bowling alleys, stage, dressing and bath-rooms. The Base-Ball Association (80 members) has fine grounds half a mile from the station.

HOTEL.

The description of the surroundings of Avondale applies equally to Athenia. In fact, the entire country traversed by the Newark Branch is in every way charming, and the towns are particularly calculated to furnish desirable and convenient summer homes. Population, 600. A good public school, a Reformed and a Lutheran Evangelical church. Two well-stocked general stores.

AMONG THE HUDSON HIGHLANDS.

VIA NEWBURGH SHORT CUT.

Some of the most beautiful and healthful country on the line of the Erie is found along the "Short Cut," which extends from Turners to Newburgh, the greater part of the way hugging the base of a lofty wall of mountains. This range is cut with deep glens and valleys, and in its rocky crests it holds many a shimmering lake. Aside from the delightful scenery of the Highland region and the historic interest attached to it, the experience of years has demonstrated the fact that the air which circulates among these hills and valleys is possessed of curative properties that render the existence of pulmonary and bronchial affections next to an impossibility. From the Schunemunk Range to the Cornwall Hills, it is stated that there is a well-defined line which marks the boundaries of this rare mountain atmosphere, and that the area of its presence is within the mountain elevations just mentioned. There are innumerable instances of invalids being restored to robust health by a few seasons spent in this natural sanitarium.

Not less than five thousand people annually summer in the Cornwall district, and among the guests who are now regular annual visitors there are many who came to Cornwall as invalids years ago. Physicians send patients to Cornwall for affections that it was formerly thought could not be benefited in a climate other than the Bahamas, Bermudas, or the Lake Superior region. Storm King and Old Cro' Nest, two rugged crags, belong to Cornwall. The drives to West Point, to Newburgh, and to New Windsor, and the hundreds of shorter mountain drives and walks, are unsurpassed. Population, 3,000. Good schools, both public and private, and churches of all denominations. Good shops and stores.

Vail's Gate is one of the oldest towns in this section, and was settled in 1720. There is still standing a stone house which was occupied by Generals Gates and St. Clair, when the army occupied the Highlands. An ancient Indian burying ground, covering several acres, lies on the bank of a stream that meanders through the place. The surrounding country is beautiful, with rolling wood and farm land, interspersed with clear, running streams from the mountains. Population, 500. A good public school and Methodist church. There are few stores, the residents preferring to run into Newburgh, but a short distance away, for trading.

HOTELS.

Overlooking the city of Newburgh and the beautiful Newburgh Bay, and surrounded by the mountains and streams of the Highlands, New Windsor offers superior attractions as a summer resting place. Population, 500. It has a good public school, and churches of Presbyterian and Episcopalian denominations; one general store. It is probably the oldest village in Orange County, and there is no place of more interest to the antiquarian. The ruins of the famous "Temple of Virtue," erected near the village by Washington, in 1782, are still to be seen. During the Revolution, muskets and bayonets for the army were made at a forge near the town. In 1782–83 Generals Green and Knox had their headquarters at John Ellison's, while Lafayette was quartered at William Ellison's stone mansion, still standing. Four miles west of the town is Washington Square, where General Clinton was quartered with Mrs. Fall. These are a few of the many historic incidents that add to the charm of New Windsor.

BOARDING HOUSE.

Miss Frances Merritt—Conveyance free. 4 single, 6 double rooms; adults, $5; children, half price; $1 per day. Good fishing in vicinity; boats at low rates.

Family Commutation, 25 trips, $18.15
12 trip tickets, $8.70.

Population, 28,000. First settled in 1708. It is truly a city built on a hill, and the view up and down the river, from almost any point, is extensive and varied. Newburgh Bay, one of the finest configurations of the Hudson, is alone sufficient to give wide reputation to the town. To its revolutionary associations, however, is due the fact that Newburgh is a place dear to every American heart. On an eminence overlooking the broad expanse of the bay is the old Hasbrouck mansion, occupied by Washington as headquarters in 1782–83. The location of this old building is one of the most beautiful on the river. The eye takes in at a glance the Highlands, the villages in Dutchess County, and the grand surroundings of the more distant landscape. Numerous mountain glens meet the eye in the elevated masses on every hand. To the south, Butter Hill, or Storm King, as it is now called, looms up like a grim sentinel, while to the north the high promontory of the Dans Kammer, old in legion, stands out against the sky in bold relief. At the southern entrance to the bay is the bare and hoary Pollipelo Island, while the crests of the Beacon Hills recall with vividness the days when their watchfires signaled the patriot bands encamped within sight of them. This wonderful picture invariably bids the spectator pause on the very threshold of the historic mansion to drink in the beauties of the scene. In this old building Washington matured the plans which led to the final triumph of the American arms, and it is in nearly the same condition as when the Father of his Country left it after the war was over. It is filled with the rarest relics of the early days, and is become the shrine of patriotism to the whole people of the nation, and is daily visited by hundreds. Unsurpassed boating and fishing in the bay. Orange Lake, six miles distant; bass and pickerel. Fine drives to Cornwall, West Point and all places in the Highlands. Churches of all denominations.

FROM GREYCOURT TO WARWICK.

From Greycourt the Lehigh & Hudson River Railway (formerly operated as the Warwick Branch of the Erie) extends westward through one of the most charming portions of Orange County. The adjacent country is made up of undulating farm land dotted here and there with sparkling lakelet and with cosy hamlet, with just enough forest growth to give an enjoyable variety to a charming landscape; all this set in a framework of wooded mountains. The road runs through the heart of the Orange County dairy region. The healthfulness of the entire country is proverbial, and with its superior facilities for driving, riding, rambling, fishing and general "outing," it offers rare inducements to the summer tourists.

Gathered in rock-bound hollows among the loftiest peaks of the Shawangunk Mountains, in a region only a few years since uninvaded by human feet, are a number of lakes not less remarkable than charming, among them being Mohonk and Minnewaska. Surrounded by precipitous shores and dense forests, where rocky caverns with subterranean streams and perpetual ice challenge the adventurous, and mystify and charm all, these lakes have taken front rank among the most popular resorts of the country. The great height here affords a view of a large part of the Eastern and Middle States. They are easily reached by an enjoyable drive from New Paltz Station. Mohonk is six and Minnewaska sixteen miles from New Paltz.

The first station on the Honesdale Branch is Rowlands, a healthy hamlet of 400 inhabitants, with delightful surroundings in the way of hills, dales, ravines and glens, and with mountain lakes and streams without number, all stocked with the best of game fish. The entire region is healthful, and the scenery picturesque to an extreme, which, together with the exceptional facilities afforded for fishing and gunning, offers rare inducements to summer visitors. There is a good school at the village, a Methodist church, and well-stocked general and grocery stores.

Four miles from the village are two beautiful little lakes known as Lake Tideusking and Wolf Lake. The owner of these lakes also owns a large surrounding tract of land, which he has divided into good-sized lots for building purposes, and these may be obtained at extremely low rates. Unusual advantages to persons desiring to possess a permanent summer-home.

Seven miles from Lackawaxen is the village of Glen Eyre, where the Blooming Grove Creek enters the Lackawaxen. The surroundings are delightfully picturesque. Glen Eyre has a population of 400, a good public school, Methodist church and good general store. Near Glen Eyre is the princely domain of the Blooming Grove Park Association. The property of the Association consists of 12,000 acres of wild mountain and valley lands, well adapted for the rearing and preservation of game. This park is for use of members of the Association only. The region is as romantic and healthy as the Adirondacks, and it is destined to become as great a resort for summer idlers as the wilderness immortalized by the pen of Murray. Within its boundaries there are several miles of trout streams and eight beautiful lakes stocked with black bass and other fish. On the high bank of the clearest and fairest of this chain of lakes a club-house has been built, and furnished with accommodations for eighty people. The point is 1,500 feet above tide-water, and it is free from malaria and mosquitoes. The association is dual in character. It admits women to all of its privileges. The anglers and hunters take their wives and children into the woods with them. From the balconies of the club-house a magnificent view is obtained; the eye wanders over lakes and hills, and in the dim distance rests upon the tops of the Catskill Mountains. Seven hundred acres of the forest have been enclosed with stone and wire fence, and within it elk, deer and other game are bred. The shooting in Blooming Grove Park consists of deer, black bear, woodcock, ruffled grouse, hares, rabbits, ducks and snipe. The spot is so attractive and so easy of access that it cannot fail to grow in popularity. Tink, Big and Little Corilla, Knob, White, Deer and Jones Lakes are within a radius of seven miles. Several picturesque waterfalls near. Livery may be had at Glen Eyre, where there are also first-class hotel accommodations.

BOARDING HOUSE.

In the midst of the Pike County sporting grounds, with any number of streams, ponds and lakes near at hand. The best of fishing and hunting in the neighborhood, and an enjoyable place for the summer. Pure water and mountain air. No malaria or mosquitoes. Situated in much the same sort of country as Hawley, the next station beyond, and the reader is referred to the description of that town, which will apply in general to Kimbles.

HAWLEY,
WAYNE COUNTY, PA.
127 miles from New York.
2 trains from New York week days.
2 trains to New York week days.
Fare one way, $3.90; limited, $3.48.

Family Commutation, 50 trips, $97.50
Family Commutation, 25 trips, $48.75
12 trip tickets, $23.40.

A charming village of 5,000 inhabitants, situate on the boundary between Wayne and Pike Counties, in a country that offers great attractions to the tourist. All around Hawley the sportsman will find the finest of lakes and streams and noted game haunts. The Wallenpaupack River, its head-waters interlocking with those of the Lehigh far back in the Pocono Wilderness, enters the Lackawaxen at Hawley. Its flow, until it reaches within a mile and a half of that place, is deep and sluggish. At the point named a series of the most magnificent falls commences. The first plunge of the water is over a precipice of seventy-five feet, and from there on to the last fall, a half mile above its mouth, the descent of the stream is two hundred and fifty feet. The grand fall, a portion of it visible from the railroad, but mostly hidden by a cluster of mills and factories, is about eighty feet high and fifty in width, the ledge over which it thunders having been worn in horse-shoe form. There are good schools, both public and private; churches of various denominations, and shops and stores of every variety, all carrying full lines of goods. The variety of fish and game about here is large, and consists of trout, bass and pickerel; deer, bear, fox, partridge, rabbits. Hawley is also the station for Blooming Grove Park. Good hotels and livery.

Lake Ariel, a famous picnic resort, and a beautiful sheet of water, is but six miles distant. It has two elegant summer hotels located on its shore.

From Hawley the Erie and Wyoming Valley Railroad extends through the romantic region lying between the Lackawaxen, Lackawanna and Wyoming Valleys. The Moosic Mountains, a spur of the Alleghenies, and one of the loftiest mountain chains in the State, offer great attractions to the summer sojourner. There are many streams, waterfalls and lakes. The country is densely wooded. The sportsman will find ample opportunity along this branch of the Erie for the exercise of his skill with both rod and gun.

One of the handsomest and wealthiest villages in Pennsylvania. Lackawaxen and Dyberry rivers run through the place. Streets broad and bordered with maples and elms. Excellent drives. Bethany, three miles; Mart Kimble's, two miles; White Mills, five miles; Waymart, ten miles. Beautiful park of maples in centre of village. Twelve famous bass and pickerel lakes within from six to fourteen miles. Trout fishing within two to five miles. Terminus of the celebrated Gravity road owned by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad. This road extends to Carbondale, seventeen miles, in the Upper Lackawanna coal regions, and is now one of the most popular excursion railroads in America. The cars run up and down the high hills, there being no motive power perceptible to the tourist. At one point an elevation of 2,000 feet above tide is reached. The ride is exhilarating, grand, indescribable, and hundreds of tourists enjoy it daily during the summer and autumn months. The Honesdale livery accommodations are excellent.

Honesdale is situated between high hills, on a plain through which two romantic mountain streams flow, uniting in the village and forming the Lackawaxen River. There are two wide basins where the streams unite, and the water is formed into the most picturesque lakes. From the eastern shore of one of these, Lake Dyberry, a solid ledge of serried and moss-grown slate rock rises almost sheer to the height of nearly 400 feet. The village itself is 800 feet above the sea-level.

The New York Tribune, in its issue of April 17th, 1885, speaks as follows of Honesdale: "Philip Hone, who was probably the courtliest mayor New York ever had, was the first president of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company. The beautiful village that sprung from the woods at the head of the canal in Wayne County, Pa., near the coal mines, was called Honesdale in his honor. In the summer of 1844, Philip Hone, John Jacob Astor, and other eminent gentlemen interested in the canal, invited Washington Irving to join them in a junketing trip from New York to Rondout, and then by private packet from that place up the canal to Honesdale. A boat was fitted up in the most elegant manner to carry them." The trip was described in a letter from Irving to his sister in glowing terms. This beautiful blending of rock, lake and stream elicited many expressions of delight from him, and he insisted on scaling the rocky height in order to study the surrounding scenery. The entire company climbed to the summit by a circuitous route. The delight of Irving was so great when he had reached the summit—from which the country for a hundred miles around is spread beneath the eye—that Philip Hone insisted that the ledge be known as Irving Cliff, and that Washington Irving christen it as such. This he did by breaking a bottle of champagne on the rock. A maple-bordered road extending along the base of the cliff, between it and the water, Irving named Ladywood Lane, a name it bears to this day.

Honesdale and vicinity has a population of 12,000, many good schools and churches of the various denominations, also good stores and shops of all kinds.

Piermont derives its name from the long pier which extends for a mile out into the waters of the Hudson. The town is located round about the high elevation which marks the northern boundary of the valley of the Sparkill, and, aside from the scenic attractions of this valley, which is the only natural approach to the Hudson from the west between Weehawken and Nyack, the local attractions of the town site itself are extremely charming. The views of the surrounding country, which are obtained from some of the more elevated portions of the town, are unexcelled anywhere, and few portions of the country afford greater attractions to lovers of the beautiful.

Piermont has a population of about 1,600. There are four good schools, two public and two private, and four churches—a Methodist, a Baptist, a Catholic and a Dutch Reformed—and good stores well stocked. A plentiful supply of pure water is obtained from both springs and wells. The town is naturally drained and is exceptionally healthy, chills and malaria being unknown in the vicinity. There is splendid fishing, both in the river and in the mountain streams which wind around among the hills, and there is good hunting in season. The celebrated Rockland Lake is near at hand, and the road leading to it affords one of the most enjoyable of the myriad of romantic drives which are common to the neighborhood. There are also many delightful walks, and the Tappan Zee presents a choice spot for bathing and boating in the summer, and for ice yachting and skating in winter.

BOARDING HOUSES.

Perched on the high, overlooking hills which mark the northernmost limit of the Palisade ridge, or nestled along either slope of a charming valley, which, extending westward up among the mountains, affords a passage-way for the Sparkill Creek, and surrounded by forest-covered hills among which meander romantic streams, Sparkill is not only topographically beautiful, but the architectural beauty of her residences, and the neat and attractive appearance of the grounds which surround them, all combine to render this one of the most charming of inland villages, and a choice spot for summer residence.

Within the northern boundary of the town is a lofty hill called Mount Nebo, a delightfully romantic locality, with moss and lichen-covered rocks and ledges, open glades carpeted with velvet grass, sequestered glens and miniature valleys—all scattered about in the midst of a garniture of primeval forest of noble growth. It is here that one of the most picturesquely beautiful of all "God's acres" is laid out—Rockland Cemetery. From the top of Mount Nebo a truly magnificent view of the surrounding country is to be had. The picture thus spread out to view is limited only by the waters of Long Island Sound, the Atlantic Ocean, the Staten Island hills, the hazy blue of the Pennsylvania mountains and the Alleghenies, the Ramapo range, the Hudson Highlands and the Catskills, and comprehends the entire diversified landscape which lies within these boundaries; and the view from the crest of the Palisade ridge, a short mile distant, is equally fine.

There are any number of fine drives over clean, hard, broad roads to pleasant local resorts, and there are enjoyable walks in every direction. The neighboring streams are well stocked with game-fish of every variety, and there is excellent sport for the hunter among the hills or along the creek bottoms. Health has its home in this region, and chills are unknown. The air is pure and salubrious, and beneficial to invalids and those to whom the climate nearer the salt water seems harsh and unfriendly. The town itself has a natural drainage which is simply perfect, and an abundance of pure, cold water. Population, 600; good public school. There are two churches —Episcopalian and Baptist—and good general stores.

BOARDING HOUSE.

J. H. Smith—⅛ mile; conveyance, 25 cents. 2 single and 5 double rooms; $8 per week; $1.50 per day; discount for season. Livery near; fishing in Hudson River; gunning for small game.

Orange is one of the most charming places of resort convenient to New York City; it lies along a succession of natural terraces, which lead back from the level of the valley quite to the crest of the Orange Mountains, and the handsome residences and elaborate grounds give evidence of a comfortable and cultured community. The city has a natural drainage, which has been so improved by art that its sanitary condition is perfect, and this, together with the pure mountain air and salubrious climate, combines to render the entire locality the home of health.

One of the most enjoyable features of this delightful place is Llewellyn Park, an enclosure of some 800 acres, and the home of a number of families whose elaborate residences, embowered in the midst of a collection of rare trees, plants and flowers, are among the handsomest in the city. There are any number of enjoyable drives in every direction, and from the more elevated portions of the town delightful views are obtained, but the crowning glory of the landscape is presented by the outlook from Eagle Rock. This is a lofty hill, 600 feet in height, and the view obtained from the summit is one the visitor will never forget. The population of Orange is 40,000; there are churches of every denomination, a splendid public school system, also excellent private schools, and shops and stores of every variety.

Between "The Oranges" and New York a greatly improved train service has been established. Fifteen express trains being run each way on week days and six trains each way on Sundays. Stations are established at East Orange (Prospect Street), Brighton Avenue, Orange (Washington Street), Llewellyn, and West Orange (Main Street). Stage lines are also in operation between Main Street and Prospect Street Station, and Main Street and Washington Street Station. These stages run during the morning, connecting with the eastbound trains to New York, and in the afternoon connect with the westbound trains from New York.

This affords a very considerable convenience to passengers to and from New York. The stages arrive at the respective stations in the morning in ample time to allow of passengers securing their tickets and getting on board the trains with comfort and safety. The times of departure of the stages from both stations, viz., Prospect Street and Washington Street, to Main Street, are arranged immediately after the arrival of the afternoon trains from New York.

In addition to this, these stages—which were built expressly for this service—run at very convenient intervals throughout the day to accommodate local travel.

Here is a neighborhood where one of the earliest settlements in New Jersey was made. Bloomfield is a charming village, with a population of 8,000. The surroundings are quiet, pastoral and healthful. Enjoyable drives over clean, hard roads, and pleasant rambles in many directions. Good fishing and gunning near at hand. The place is connected with Newark by horse railroad. There are several churches and superior educational institutions. A popular resort in summer. Being within easy access of the Oranges and Newark, its suitability and convenience, either as a summer resort or permanent suburban residence, is evident.

New York has no handsomer or more healthful suburb than Montclair. The village is built on a succession of terraces, which here characterize the eastern slope of the Orange Mountains, and has climbed to the very summit of the mountain range; and all that correct taste could suggest and wealth supply has been used in its improvement. The population is about 9,000. There are numerous churches and excellent schools, both public and private, a newspaper, good stores of all kinds, and a well-stocked public library. Its sanitary condition is unsurpassed. The water is pure and plenty, and the view of the surrounding country from the heights west of the village is extremely beautiful, encompassing as it does New York Bay, the Narrows, and the line of the Hudson River for miles. Parties seeking a convenient and charming place to spend the summer months will find Montclair exactly suited to their wants.

During the past year a spacious club house has been erected at Montclair. The citizens entered energetically into the enterprise and have a building worthy of Montclair and the age we live in. In capacity the building is "roomy," and the whole edifice is very imposing.

The various societies, clubs, soirées, etc., of the town meet here, and musical entertainments, receptions and balls are given all within the compass of ease and comfort.

At this place the general elevation is higher than at any other point within the same distance of the city in any direction. The mountain ranges are here first encountered by the railroad. It is a region of delightful views, drives and walks in the woods and hills. A quarter of a mile from the station the elevation is 300 feet above the railroad and 650 above the tide. The place is growing rapidly and much building is now under way. Population, 800; with good public schools and a kindergarten excellently conducted. Numerous churches near at hand. The Episcopal stone chapel and the Congregational church at Upper Montclair are deservedly a source of pride to the residents. A more charming spot for a residence or summer abiding place it would be hard to find; and although no large boarding houses are open for the accommodation of guests, board may be secured with private families at reasonable rates.

This station gets its name from a charming cataract, which is hidden from sight in a grove of pines, a short distance from the railroad. The Falls are on the Passaic, that here winds its way down from the wild-looking hills that rise in rugged outline to the westward. The surroundings are extremely picturesque, and during the summer they are visited by many from all parts of the country. There is good fishing and boating, and the spot possesses all the requirements of a favorite summer resort. Population, 2,200; with churches of the Methodist and Dutch Reformed denominations, public and private school.

Overlooked by high, rocky hills covered with cedars, which also rise in fantastic groves on every side, this station cannot fail to attract all who love Nature in her wild as well as her more tender moods. It has a population of 300 persons; two public schools and one private school; churches of different denominations, and good general stores. The rugged Wanaque Mountains rise on the west. From one bold peak of the range, known as Federal Hill, a great portion of eastern New Jersey is brought beneath the eye. Pompton Lake, east of the station, lies in a vale, surrounded by a picturesque bordering of hemlocks and cedars. There is another lake, but smaller, half a mile from Pompton Junction, where there is the best of fishing, bathing and boating. The view northward, into the wild and mountainous Wanaque region, is one of the finest in the country.

From Pompton Junction the road begins the ascent of the Wanaque Mountains, and the ride from there to Greenwood Lake is through a wildly picturesque country.

Commutation, 1 month, $9.

The first station east of Hewitt, and but two and a half miles distant therefrom, a general description of the natural surroundings of the latter would apply also to Monks. The hunting and fishing is excellent and affords much pleasure to city sportsmen, who annually indulge themselves in their favorite pastime and visit its wilds. It is also a desirable place to pass the summer, providing one desires isolation and simple natural beauty in the surroundings.

Commutation, 1 month, $9.50.

Named after New York's ex-mayor; but three-quarters of a mile removed from Greenwood Lake. Located in the midst of a primeval forest, with numerous small streams; Hewitt offers many attractions to the sportsman, and also to those who desire a quiet, retired resting-place for the summer within easy access of the great metropolis. The hunting is all that could be asked, and in their season—grouse, partridge and squirrels, as well as larger game—may be found here in abundance. Greenwood Lake has long been known as a good fishing-ground, and being so near, the sojourner at Hewitt finds it but a pleasant ramble to this beautiful sheet of water, where fine strings of black bass and pickerel reward the efforts of the disciples of Izaak Walton, and in the streams close at hand "speckled beauties" invite the fisherman's skill. Population, 500. Two good public schools; Methodist and Presbyterian churches; three general stores, well stocked.

FARM HOUSES.

GREENWOOD LAKE,
(STERLING FOREST),
ORANGE COUNTY, N. Y.
45 miles from New York.
3 trains from New York week days.
3 trains to New York week days.
1 train from New York Sundays.
1 train to New York Sundays.
Fare one way, $1.40.
Round trip, $1.75.
Family Commutation, 50 trips, $25.00
Family Commutation, 25 trips, $12.50
Commutation, 1 month, $10.

The village of Greenwood Lake is situated at the head of the lake from which it derives its name—one of the most picturesquely beautiful sheets of water on the continent. Located partly in Orange County, N. Y., and partly in Passaic County, N. J., in the midst of a primeval forest, and surrounded by towering hills and mountains, this "Loch Katrine of the American Trosachs" presents scenic attractions of no mean order; and, with its surroundings and appointments, possesses unrivaled attractions to those who seek rest, health or recreation in the midst of rural beauty.

The lake itself is a thousand feet above tide-water, and its waters are deep, clear and cold. Here the angler will find game fish of every variety—bass, pike and pickerel being the most prominent.

For the accommodation and entertainment of visitors, there are several well-appointed hotels, located at convenient intervals on most favorable and attractive sites along the shores of the lake, and the transient or permanent visitor will find every accommodation and convenience, and at moderate cost; while hunting or fishing parties who desire to bring their own equipage, and try a season of "roughing it," will find along the shores, or upon the wooded islands in the lake, any number of choice spots especially adapted and eminently suitable for camping out. Here, at the lake itself, he will find every facility for rowing, sailing, fishing and bathing; and in the adjacent mountains, easily reached by quiet, shaded pathways, are many romantic ravines and dells, their rocky walls garnished with beautiful mosses, ferns and wild flowers. Though near at hand, these mountain wilds are so sequestered that they offer a safe brooding place for the game birds, and almost at every turn the visitor will "flush" a covey of quail or a mother partridge and her family, while the song of the wild bird greets him at every hand.

The town has a population of 250, two good schools, one public and one private; a Methodist and a Union church, and two good general stores.

MONTELAC PARK.

The western shore of Greenwood Lake, from the state line between New Jersey and New York, north to a point opposite the Windermere Hotel, a distance of between three and four miles, has lately come into the possession of a number of wealthy gentlemen. They have long been familiar with its exquisite beauty and the manifest suitableness of this tract for a park, and are now about to add (what man can) to the natural advantages which the mountain slope and lake side fairy land possesses. Montelac Park will be made an exclusive summer resort. Densely covered with magnificent foliage, the land rises from the shore of the lake terrace by terrace—some gently, others bolder and more pronounced—each terrace backed by plateaux which vary in width and size, but are all available for development and use. As we climb these successive terraces, the lake, with its beauties, widens and extends, until reaching the upper plateau we see the valley of "the lake of the green woods." Our line of vision extends from the lower Catskills on the north to the restful hills of Morris County on the south, while before us, as far as eye can reach, lie the Highlands of the Hudson.

This land is to be improved and developed by clearing off the over-growth, making first-class roads and building high class summer residences. Montelac Park is absolutely restricted against any thing which may tend to injure it.

Anyone desiring information may address "THE MONTELAC PARK," No. 55 Liberty St., New York City.

GREENWOOD LAKE GLENS.

This beautiful and romantic locality is situated at the outlet of Greenwood Lake, which precipitates its overflow through a series of rapid falls of the most attractive and interesting character. The surrounding land is covered with a natural growth of evergreens and deciduous trees, affording a salubrious atmosphere during the heat of summer. Extensive improvements have been made by Messrs. Cooper and Hewitt, the owners of the property, in order to provide an agreeable and respectable place for excursions, freed from the ordinary drawbacks of a promiscuous crowd. Shady walks have been constructed on the mountain side and along the margin of the stream, and a refreshment house of ample proportions has been provided, attached to which is a new and beautiful pavilion for dancing and other recreations. The view commands the entire lake, while on the front of the property, crossing the railroad track by a bridge, has been erected a spacious bath with ample accommodations and dressing rooms for all who may desire to bathe within the house or in the lake. Boats, ball grounds, tennis courts, swings and the usual appliances for enjoyment have been provided. The domain extends to many thousands of acres, and a road will be constructed to the station three miles lower down, so that parties who may desire to enjoy the ramble may there take the train to New York. There is no point east of the Alleghanies where the scenery is wilder and more attractive than in this favored region, within two hours of the great city of New York.
